Introducing the CryptoQuestion: Micro Cap Watch List

Micro Cap Watch List Rules of the Game

There are over 6,000 listed cryptocurrencies. However most of the action is in the top 6 (Bitcoin, Ether, XRP, Tether, Litecoin and Bitcoin Cash). From our own indepth research it is obvious there are huge rewards waiting for those who find the hidden gems among the many long forgotten and overlooked micro cap cryptocurrencies. These are the coins with a market cap of under $3m, representing over 80% of all cryptocurrencies.

High Reward - High Risk

Investing in micro cryptocurrencies is probably one of the most lucrative opportunities out there right now although it is not without risk. Whilst offering the greatest potential of most investment opportunities it also represents the highest risk. Don't enter this market unless you understand the risks and most importantly you are able to withstand any losses.

A Few Facts

Here are a few interesting facts about the cryptocurrency market:

- There are over 6,000 listed cryptocurrencies
- There are 30 coins with a market cap of over $1bn
- There are 114 coins with a market cap of over $100m
- The bottom 5,000 coins have a market cap of under $1m
- The bottom 3,900 coins have a market cap of under $500
- Over 60% of listed cryptocurrencies have a market cap of under $1

Our Search

To narrow our search we focused on cryptocurrencies with a market cap below $3m and above $2,000, that provided us with around 1,100 cryptocurrencies to sift through, no small task.

We were looking for cryptocurrencies that had built a reasonably sized community, where the currency was listed on at least two exchanges, and where the project demonstrated potential. Let us describe what we consider the word potential to mean in this context.

Our Selection Criteria

A project with potential is one where the project is live and has an established user base. In some cases the project may be dormant but the project possesses a working infrastructure which we believe could be relaunched at some point in the near future. This potential new impetus could transform both the project and the cryptocurrencies value. In some cases there are a few very interesting projects which have operated under the radar playing second fiddle to the bigger players in the market. Overall the projects/cryptocurrencies we have selected in our opinion represent excellent potential.

The Potential Rewards

As you will see from the micro coins that we have selected the prices are in many cases a fraction of a cent with market caps ranging from $1.7m to $2,000. The potential if one of these projects moves into the mainstream or is revalued is huge. Daily increases of 50% plus in the micro market are commonplace. But the reverse is also true.

Updates

We will look to update this list every Friday adding and taking out cryptocurrencies depending on developments and feedback which we will relay to you as they happen. With that said please inform us of any developments or opinions you may have so we can continue to refine this list.

Dubious List

In the course of our research we come across cryptocurrencies that on the face of them look very interesting however sometimes there is just not enough information available to truly assess their viability and value. Perhaps the team behind the project have been unresponsive or maybe there have been complaints of bad user experiences. This is a reason to exclude such coins from our main list however we want to maintain a separate list so we can monitor these coins, especially if we have suspicions that they are scam projects.

DYOR

Always do your own research. This list does not represent financial advice or a recommendation to buy. It is purely a watch list of cryptocurrencies we think have potential.

Conflicts of Interest

CryptoQuestion or its associates do not hold any currencies on the list published, nor do we intend to purchase cryptocurrencies on this list.
